BALLPLAYER DIES VICTIM OF THE GAME

Paul Reynal Succumbs
to Injuries at Pittsburg
Hospital

HIT BY PITCHED BALL

Monongahela Outfielder Popular Throughout Valley--
Pitcher Prostrated

Paul Reynal, the popular young outfielder of the Monongahela baseball team, died Wednesday evening at 6:20 o'clock in the South Side hospital, Pittsburg, as the result of injuries sustained in a church league game at Monongahela Monday evening, when he was struck in the left temple by a pitched ball.

The young man was taken to the hospital on Tuesday morning and an operation was performed Tuesday afternoon, a large clot of blood being removed from his brain. Reynal showed improvement following the operation. He regained consciousness Tuesday evening and was able to move his right arm and leg, which had been paralyzed. He suddenly became worse Wednesday evening and sank rapidly until death came.

The body of the young man was brought to Monongahela today. Funeral services will be held in the Transfiguration Roman Catholic church, of which Reynal was a member on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The pallbearers will be members of the Monongahela baseball team. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery at Monongahela.

Paul Reynal, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Baptist Reynal, was born in France 26 years ago. He was brought to America by his parents when he was four years of age and since that time the family home had been at New Eagle.

He was an employee of the American Window Glass company. Reynal was widely known throughout the valley for his baseball ability. He was generally respected and was regarded as a lover of clean sport. He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, of Monongahela and of a French organization called the Independents, at Charleroi. In addition to being the crack outfielder of the Monongahela baseball team he played on the Catholic team in the church league. In the game in which he was fatally injured he was substituting on the Presbyterian team for Clyde Jenkins.

ODD FELLOWS OF VALLEY TO HOLD OUTING

Arrangements are being made by the Monongahela Valley I. O. O. F. Picnic association for the annual outing of Odd Fellows to be held at Kenneywood park on August 26. A special train will be run on the Monongahela division, P. R. R. from Brownsville, gathering passengers at various points. It is expected a big crowd will attend the affair.

Ejectment is Opposed

Monongahela Property Owner Claims His Titles Are
Alright

C. C. Henderson of Monongahela, has filed an answer to an ejectment proceeding started by Martha J. Campbell, Dorothy Blanche McConnell, Bertha J. Minehart and J. Oscar Brawdy. The defendant has filed an abstract of the land running down the title for years and claims a legal right to the property and denies that the plaintiffs are the owners.

L. C. B. A. PICNIC SUCCESS

Local Church People
Gather at Eldora Park
Wednesday

"BIG" DAY IS OBSERVED

Almost ideal weather conditions prevailed for the picnic and outing of St. Jerome's Catholic congregation of Charleroi, held at Eldora park Wednesday under the auspices of the Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association. A good sized crowd attended the outing, which was a decided success in every particular.

The L. C. B. A. had the park controlled for the day and everything was declared free. The merry-go-round, the roller coaster, the dancing pavilion—all were to be enjoyed for the asking, and during the afternoon and evening they were all well patronized.

Dancing was one feature, and euchre that was enjoyed by those who did not care to dance was another. Beautiful favors were awarded.

Refreshment stands were conducted during the afternoon and evening at various points throughout the park at which points lemonade and other light drinks of a similar nature and ice cream were served. At the dancing pavilion there were old fashioned cake walks that proved popular.

A bicycle contest was decided. The bicycle was finally awarded to Paul Urban of Charleroi.

There was a party of from 20 to 25 present from Pittsburg to enjoy the outing. Members of the congregation say it was one of the most successful affairs ever held.

LLEWELLYN ON SLATE FOR COLLECTOR JOB

Congressman Palmer Names Brownsville Man in List That He Hands to President Woodrow
Wilson For Appointment

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer carried his recommendations for Federal appointments in Western Pennsylvania to President Woodrow Wilson and announcement of appointments are expected soon from the president.

Included in the list will be C. G. Llewellyn of Brownsville, collector of internal revenue to succeed D. B. Heiner. Others will be: E. Lowery Humes, Meadville, United States district attorney to succeed John H. Jordan. Henry H. Wilson of Beaver, United States Marshal to succeed E. H. Porter of Beaver. Frank P. Isherwood of Bradford, McKean county, deputy marshal. William E. McNair, of Wilkesburg and James A. Mabbitt of Washington, Pa., as assistant

United States attorneys. George W. Ackin of Pittsburg, surveyor of the port to succeed M. M. Garland. H. H. McGinnis of Pittsburg to be appraiser of customs to succeed John D. Pringle.

The two latter places will not be filled at present. The incumbents will be permitted to serve out their terms unless charges are filed against them. Porter is to be dropped to make room for Wilson. The fight on Llewellyn will be carried to Washington next week. His political opponents are to have a chance to present their case to Palmer. It is understood, however that this move is but a subterfuge and a plan to allay the wounded feelings of several disappointed Democrats.

DIOGENES EVIDENTLY MISSED CONDUCTOR

Honest Man Returns Pocketbook Containing
$170 to Black Diamond Woman and Doesn't
Raise a Bit of Fuss About It

On his rounds searching for an honest man Diogenes must have missed the street car conductors, and particularly a conductor on the Pittsburg Railways line, one Roy Hazelbaker. Coming home on the car from Pittsburg Wednesday Mrs. Valentine Partizini, of Black Diamond lost her pocketbook, which she said contained $170, some small change and some valuable papers.

Immediately she notified the car bar at Charleroi of her loss and wept through fear, it is said that a member of the gang of thieves believed to have been working through this community had "touched" her. Later she received a call and was astounded to be handed her pocketbook containing all the money and everything she wanted.

JOS. W. MARTIN ENTERS CONTEST

Well Known Washington
Man to Make Run for Recorder Nomination

Local announcement is being made today by Joseph W. Martin, formerly of California, now of Washington as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for nomination for recorder in Washington county. As yet he has no opposition in the county and it is rumored that he will not have for the nomination. Other parties will have candidates in the field, and it looks as if his fight would be after the primaries.

Had it not been for 13 votes Martin would not be a candidate this year for the office of recorder. He made one of the most remarkable fights Washington county has ever known for prothonotary at the last election and was beaten out by A. V. Lewis, of Donora, by 15 votes, according to the tally of a board of counters that completed the second count. His contest was made on the question of double crossed ballots and he lost out in the final decision.

Mr. Martin is well known and popular over Washington county, and it is believed with the Democratic nomination he will make things hot for whoever is named by other parties to oppose him. His close run for prothonotary gives proof of this.

DR. J. W. MANON OUT FOR BURGESS

Leading Civic Worker Announces Candidacy for Municipal Office

The first announcement of a candidate to be made for the office of Burgess of Charleroi is being published elsewhere today in the Mail. Dr. J. W. Manon will make the run on the Democratic ticket, having been persuaded by his friends to enter the contest.

Dr. Manon is one of the best known men in Charleroi, and is generally regarded as one of the leading civic workers. In numerous ways his influence has been felt for the right and his work for Charleroi has always bended toward the improvement of the town.

Dr. Manon has been a resident of Charleroi for 17 years. He has been engaged in business that length of time, and is a property owner. As a close student of affairs he is a capable man for the office of Burgess, and as a man who has seen his share of service in municipal offices without remuneration has won his right to recognition.

Dr. Manon was formerly a member of the school board and a hard worker for upbuilding the schools. Also for sometime he was chief of the fire department serving in this position

Death of Paul Reynal Has Put Damp on Baseball at Down River City

The arrangements for the series of baseball games between the Monongahela team and the Washington team for the championship of Washington county have been temporarily abandoned. The first of the games was to have been played on next Saturday. This game has been called off owing to the tragic death of Paul Reynal, outfielder on the Monongahela team and as yet it is not known whether the other games scheduled will be played.

LIGHTNING BURNS BOY; IS LIVING

Strip of Hair is Removed From Head and
His Horse is Killed

OCCURS DURING STORM

After lying in an unconscious condition for 13 hours as a result of being struck by lightning John D. Bedillion, aged 15 years, son of John R. Bedillion, who resides in Chartiers township near the Cross Roads United Presbyterian church, rallied Wednesday and the attending physician believes that the boy will recover. Two horses were instantly killed by the bolt that hit young Bedillion and two of his brothers were stunned.

Young Bedillion had a remarkable escape from meeting instant death. The lightning seems to have struck him directly on top of the head. There is a mark down the front of his body and another on the back of his head and down his back. The lightning that went down his back is believed to have caused his condition to remain so serious during the 13 hours. A streak of hair on the back of his head was burned off fully an inch and a half wide.

The boy was injured shortly before 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during the heavy storm that passed to the north of Washington. He was unconscious from that time until Wednesday when he began to rally. When he first awoke he was not even aware that he had so close a call from death and was unable to recall any feature of the accident. He continued to improve, however, and his memory cleared.

The father saw his son struck down. He said that as the horses dropped to the ground his son seemed to leap into the air and fall upon the

CHARLEROI GIRL SAFE

Miss Catherine Kauffle in
One of Cars But Escapes
Without Injury

Proverbial Pennsylvania Railroad good luck attended the passengers and employes on two westbound trains from Philadelphia when a thrilling rear-end collision occurred at Tyrone Wednesday afternoon at 2:40 o'clock. The collision was serious, yet only one fatality was reported, with another employe of the road dangerously injured; eleven were taken to the Altoona hospital with more or less painful wounds and close to 100 persons who were more less hurt continued their journeys or went home.

Engineer G. K. Hunt of train No. 13, of Harrisburg, was the man killed when he stuck to his post. Fireman W. D. Barton of Harrisburg and Assistant Road Foreman C. E. Miller of Harrisburg were badly injured the latter having his skull fractured.

Westbound passenger train No. 15 which arrived at Tyrone four minutes late had called in its flagman and had already started to move away from the station when No. 13 a fast express of eight cars running on time and going about 30 miles an hour, came around the curve less than 12 cars lengths east of the station and plunged into the Pullman car on the rear of No. 15. The impact threw the locomotive of No. 13 off the tracks and against the railroad fence, three cars following also being derailed.

The front mail car in No. 15 also went over while the seven cars behind it stood the shock and remained on the rails. On the locomotive hauling No. 13, were Engineer George K. Funk, Fireman W. D. Barton and Assistant Road Foreman of Engines C. E. Miller all of Harrisburg.

When the locomotive lurched over Funk was crushed against the fence and instantly killed. Road Foreman Miller suffered a fracture of the skull and the fireman escaped with lesser injuries. The passengers in the last two cars on No. 15, which received the worst of the shock, were thrown from their seats and more or less bruised and cut but similar injuries were received by others in all the cars on the two trains. Assistance and surgical aid were promptly sent the injured being cared for and all but 11 sent on their way.

The cause of the accident is yet to be explained. Within the past two weeks new automatic electric signals were installed at Tyrone. Whether they failed to work or whether they were disregarded by the engineer of No. 13, will depend upon the investigation to be made immediately. The last signal which should have warned the engineer of No. 13 is located about 40 car lengths from the station, but the station could not be seen by the engineer on account of a sharp curve only 10 car lengths away. There was but slight detention to trains because of the wreck,

CORRUPT ELECTIONS

According to the British historian and philosopher, W. E. H. Lecky,
an evil that is universal, no matter
how flagrant, is not recognized as such. It is only when the evil is fully recognized, and is on the run,
that public attention is called to it
and the impression is created that
such evil is at its height, when the truth of the matter is that it is disappearing remarks the Punksawney Spirit.

When the public conscience is thoroughly awakened to the iniqui-
ty of a thing its days are numbered.
Although we have heard more
about corrupt elections and rotten
political methods in the past decade
than in former years, those who can
remember the old regime, when the
vest pocket ballot was in use and
electioneering was permitted in the
election house, will admit that there
has been a great change for the better.

Most middle-aged men can remember the time when a voter could not
approach the polls without being
pulled and hauled and brow-beaten
by poll-workers, while the weaker
class were offered bribes of a quarter or a drink of whiskey. It was no
uncommon sight to see a ticket
snatched from a man's hand just as he was about to deposit it in the ballot-box, and another ticket substituted,
with the information that "you don't want to vote that ticket."

This sort of thing was once so
common that nobody regarded it as
an offense, and the poll-worker who
used the most flagrant rough house
methods was looked upon as a sort
of hero.

Increased culture and an improved moral sense has almost abolished

these methods and a general feeling
prevails that it is an outrage to interfere in any way, save by legitimate
argument and the force of right
reasoning, with any voter.

The security and permanence of
our institutions depend upon the
purity of the ballot and the protection of the rights of citizens in their exercise of the franchise. We cannot, of course, expect perfection in
anything human so long as humanity itself is imperfect, but we may expect matters to improve in precise
proportion to the growth of culture
and the increase of moral sentiment.

IDLERS MUST WORK.

"Idlers must work," says the New
Castle News, which tells that Mayor
Nye of Minneapolis has given orders that every man in that city who
will not work is to be classed as a vagrant and punished. It is estimated that there are about 1,200 men in that city out of employment and
Mayor Nye states that from information he has received he believes
about 500 of these are looking for work, 500 are dodging work and the other 200 are preaching idleness as a business.

Inasmuch as there is a big demand for labor in the flour city the
mayor cannot see why men should
remain idle and he has given orders
that the police are to round up all
men out of work, see that they get
an opportunity to get a job and if
they will not work for themselves
they will be put to work for the city.
The Minneapolis mayor is to be congratulated on his stand. There is no place for the professional parasite or society and the sooner that fact is borne home hard, the better
it will be for all concerned.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The young man told about in the Philadelphia Star glanced around timidly and said: "I would like a pair of ladies' silk stockings."
"What size, please?" asked the clerk.

"The smallest you have."
"All right," said the clerk, knowingly, and handing out a pair of tans,
"I think these will be about right. By the way, they're for your sweetheart are they not?"
"Yes, of course," the customer replied, blushing to the roots of his hair, "but how do you know?"
"Well, if you had been buying them
for your wife you would have asked for a good large size and they would have been cotton."

An eastern scientist claims, says
an exchange that the people of this world didn't begin to really live until forty years ago and that life up to that time was not worth while.
This is an open question and many will disagree with the professor, who claims that the inventions of the last forty or fifty years are what makes life bearable.

We don't agree with him and if you think it over you will have to admit that in those good old days a lot of our present-day nuisances were unheard of. Following are a few of the things the people of those times didn't have to stand for:

- Microbes.
- Appendicitis.
- Squawking phonographs.
- Reckless automobile drivers.
- Bubbly drinking fountains.
- Leaky fountain pens.
- Wheezy furnaces with tremendous appetites.
- Sawdust breakfast food.
- Peg top trousers with cuffs.
- Vaudeville yodlers.
- Fifty-cent butter.
- Screeshowl automobile horns.
- Musical comedies.

TOWNS TO HOLD BIG OUTINGS

Eldora Park to be Scene
Next Week of Monster
Gatherings

People from all along the Monongahela valley will attend the outings
of the Belle Vernon Civic League and Sunday schools of Belle Vernon and the Charleroi Business Men's Association to be given next week at Eldora park. An immense crowd is looked for on Wednesday, the day for the Belle Vernon outing and a crowd of as great or greater proportions will be present for the Charleroi outing the day after, Thursday,
August 7.

The chief feature of the Belle Vernon picnic will be a sham battle that is being widely advertised. J. W.
Vance is the chairman of the sports committee and he announces that there will be other big events of an athletic nature, with plenty of entertainment to be furnished. Free tickets are to be given the children for the various amusements. Free cars will be run at 9:30 from Speers to carry some of the crowd to the park and returning special free cars will leave the park at 6 o'clock. A band will furnish music during the day.

Charleroi, unlike Belle Vernon will hold its picnic during the afternoon and evening. Like Belle Vernon it will have various amusements during the afternoon at the park. The new arrangements for a half day and the evening picnic was made because it would give the business men and their clerks time to realize a half day's work and still allow them a good outing. Special cars are to be run to and from the park for this event.

Next Friday J. A. Weber of Finleyville, will hold one of his popular dances at Eldora. During the last few weeks his dances have proven very popular. At the last one he gave there were approximately 140
couples present. The Delmar club dances every Tuesday night are proving popular.

Members of the Lady Maccabees
are beginning active preparations
for their annual outing of Monongahela Valley members on August 20.
A picnic that was a big success was held last year at Eldora.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Flickinger went to McKeesport to visit.

THE ADVANCE OF KNOWLEDGE

There is evidence all around us
of the striking advancement being
made every day in almost every line
of endeavor. Aeroplanes, considered unpractical only a few years ago, are
now to be used for carrying mail to inaccessible spots in Alaska and other
remote corners of the globe. Tremendous engines travel across the continent at speeds hitherto undreamed
of. Automobiles are now reliable and
have marked a further advance.
Mighty steamships, replete with
every luxury and literally floating pal-
aces, have supplanted the old uncertain "windjammer" that formerly sufficed. Steel skyscrapers have been erected on the sites of buildings much humbler. Thus we live in an age that,
because of the rapid advance, im-
poses upon us a strain formerly unknown.

The singular aspect is the facility
with which men and women adapt themselves to the new conditions. But
in so doing there is an inevitable reaction that results in numerous illnesses and diseases. The use of patient medicines, pills, physics, etc.,
has not improved the general health.
Indeed, the harmful ingredients do
much to aggravate ill-health by eating away the tissues and weakening
the system.

In this sphere of human achievement there is little to record. Natural means of restoring and maintaining health are still the best and safest. This accounts for the increasing popularity of the noted mineral springs of Europe. In this connection there is an interesting development. A prominent American chemist has succeeded in reproducing the
health-giving elements of the mineral
waters in powder form. The powder
has been reinforced by the addition
of two well-known curative agents—
phosphate of soda and lithia. The preparation thus obtained is like evaporated mineral water, and when dissolved in ordinary drinking water has
all the medicinal qualities of the mineral springs of Carlsbad and Marien-
bad, which annually attract hundreds
of Americans seeking relief from rheumatism, gout and disorders of the
system due to the secretion of bile
and uric acid. The results obtained
with this preparation, known as Cook's
Lax-Uric, are little short of marvelous. It contains no drugs or harmful ingredients, and can be safely
and effectively used for headaches,
biliousness, summer complaints, indigestions in eating and drinking and
all conditions arising from uric acid
in the blood. Physicians recommend Lax-Uric as an ideal laxative. It increases appetite and aids digestion.

WATCH US GROW

About one Year ago I attempted to draw your attention to the steady and permanent growth of our little Borough and since that time our valuation has increased nearly $100,000.00.

Theres A Reason

As a resident section North Charleroi, (or as it is better known as Lock No. 4) has no equal in the Monongahela Valley. In close touch with the leading industrial centers and the borough spending from $15,000 to $20,000 in sewer and street improvements, will make it still more desirable.

More homes have been built by the better class of working men in our borough during the last year than in any borough within a radius of 20 miles regardless of size, and homes that any man, regardless of position would be proud to own.

Real Estate values have increased over 30 per cent in the last year, and after our improvements are completed, which will be within the next two months, we can reasonably expect another increase in values.

Procrastination is the thief of time. I have still a few choice lots for sale at prices from $225 to $1500 each.

Several good homes, two grocery stores. Call and see us and we will be pleased to talk the matter over with you. Watch for small ads for specials every day. You may see something that will suit you.

August Furniture Sale

Reductions 10% to 50%

August 1st to 30th.

We always have an August Furniture Sale. We always get ready for it early.

Furniture factories have their dull seasons, like many other industries. Months ahead we tell certain of the best manufacturers.

"Make to our order, whenever business is so dull you can afford to take very low prices just to keep busy, Furniture for our August Sale. It must be up to our usual year-round Furniture standards. Deliver in time for the August Sale so we can sell it then at the same proportion of saving we get from you on the cost."

That is why we can sell at the reductions quoted. There is a wide choice at a wide range of prices. And all our Furniture is correct as to period and design, is in good taste and is serviceable.

Our August Bedding Sale

August 1st to 30th.

In August, we make prices on Blankets and other Bedding to create an out-of-season demand commensurate with our possibilities of cheap supply.

The Blanket business for the manufacturer as governed by demand for use, closes in February and reopens in October.

This condition enables us to buy at low figures, if we sell quickly so as not to have the stock on hand in the Fall, an immense quantity of Blankets and Comforts for an August Sale.

We can make you more liberal price concessions on new, fresh goods at this time than any other time in the year.

See Pittsburgh Papers, Thursday evening, July 31st, for full particulars.

A Chinese Umbrella

By REGINALD D. HAVEN

I was during the other day with my friend Alan Bonbright. Mrs. Bonbright is the daughter of a missionary whose field was in China, and she had spent most of her girlhood there. Her husband had been to China on business, met her there and brought her home with him as his wife.

Mrs. Bonbright, a girl at this time, was with her father at his missionary station in the province of Shantung. After dinner I was taken to a room where a collection of souvenirs of the Flowery Kingdom was kept. Among them was an umbrella made of bamboo wood and paper, covered with the customary pictures of men and women, birds and flowers. Across it when expanded were Chinese characters which, of course, I could not read. Bonbright directed my attention to the umbrella, and Mrs. Bonbright said, "If you're going to tell that story I'll go elsewhere." She went out with a look indicating that I was about to hear something unpleasant.

"You know," said Bonbright, "that China is full of persons who live by highway robbery. They cut off their heads whenever they capture them, but this doesn't seem to deter others, for life is cheap there and only the better classes care much about their own or others' terrestrial existence. Well, one day I was traveling on horseback through the province of Shantung. I had no mind to be set upon by the highwaymen and had armed myself. There is not much fight in even the robbers in China unless they have every advantage, and I didn't feel in much danger so long as I could defend myself.

"I was not attacked myself; but, hearing a shouting ahead of me, I pressed forward and found a Chinaman in the dress of a mandarin being set upon by a gang of robbers. I fired shots at them, and they left their prey in a sorry plight and took to their heels. I picked him up and set him to rights. I had come up just in time to save his pocketbook, and he offered me a portion of its contents as a reward. This, of course, I declined, whereupon he talked his thanks—so I supposed, for I did not understand a word he said. Just before I left him he took a writing stick and wrote those characters you see there on the umbrella and gave it to me. There was nothing to do but accept it, and as the day was hot I used it.

"Every Chinaman I met looked at the umbrella, then at me, and their indifference was at once turned to reverence. Some of them stopped and saluted as I passed. I wondered if they mistook me for the governor of a province or an executioner. Singularly enough, I didn't catch on to the fact that it was the umbrella that was drawing forth such respect.

"I stopped that night at the missionary station presided over by my wife's father and found them in great trouble. They had got wind through some of the Christian natives, servants and others attached to the mission of the Boxer movement that was about to break forth. My wife was then a girl of nineteen and the oldest of a family of seven. The converts were in a terrible state of fear, which naturally communicated itself to the white family.

"Drowning persons will cling to a straw, and this family clung to me. True, I was only one man, but I was well armed, and even one man might be of some protection. I suppose I would have remained anyway, but I could not leave the girl who struck my fancy. When she looked appealingly at me with those blue eyes of hers I could not resist and said I would remain with them till the trouble was over.

"Remembering how easily I had put to flight the robbers, I really thought that with my two revolvers and some fifty cartridges I would be a protection, but when I heard the shrieks of the Christian converts as the crowd approached the mission house I didn't like the prospect. The yells of the brutes who were murdering them were equally appalling. What could I do against an infuriated mob?

"However, I stationed myself at an upper window, laying my ammunition and extra pistols beside me. I called upon Ethel to stay beside me and load them for me as fast as I fired, and she nerved herself to do so. I put my head out and, seeing the mob coming reeking with blood, my heart sank. Wishing something to conceal me from them, I took up the umbrella the mandarin had given me, opened it, fixed it before me at the window and poked holes through it so that I could see where to fire.

"The mob had broken into the next house and killed every one there, then was ready to storm the mission. Already an ax had fallen on the door below me when I saw a man look at my umbrella and become much excited. He ran forward, then back with the man who wielded the ax. A knot of rioters gathered, all looking at the umbrella. Not another blow was struck. I did not need to fire a single shot. The mob seemed disappointed, but passed on.

"As soon as it had gone I withdrew the umbrella. Ethel, who could read Chinese as well as English, clasped her hands, raised her eyes to heaven and gave thanks. Then she interpreted the characters to me. It was an order from the greatest mandarin in the province to 'respect this man and all that belongs to him.'

Smallest Deer in the World.

The "mousedeer" of India and Africa is the chevrotain, one of the smallest hoofed animals. It stands less than twelve inches in height at the shoulder. The prevailing color of the fur is brown, finely speckled with yellow. The spots are large and sometimes run into each other and form stripes. The underparts of the body are white. It possesses the peculiar habit of walking on the tips of its hoofs. This lends a stiffness to the legs which has gained for the chevrotain the reputation of having no knee joints. It has no horns or antlers. But, as in the case of the musk deer, the male is provided with large canine teeth or tusks in the upper jaw. It is of exceedingly timid disposition and lies hidden in the jungle throughout the day and only ventures to feed in the early morning and after dusk in the evening.

Open Spaces in Cities.

Along with the new keenness over social and economic reform England has developed a number of other virtues in the past score of years. One is an appreciation of the value of open spaces in cities, and one is the increased determination to preserve ancient landmarks. Every few months an article appears in the Times or some other influential newspaper acquainting people with the danger that threatens some historical or long cherished spot, and usually the money necessary to save the property has been forthcoming.—Indianapolis News.

Practical Course Coming.

"Father," asked the girl who was going to marry a poor man, "do you think I ought to take a course in household economics? They offer a lovely one at Briny Moore for $300." "No," replied pater grimly. "You will get one for nothing after you are married."—Judge.

The Request.

"Did Baron Fucash ask you for my hand, father?" asked Gwendolin. "No," replied Mr. Cumrox. "He called to discuss a marriage settlement. He didn't ask for your hand. He asked for my pocketbook."—Washington Star.

Great Eaters. Great Breakfasts.

Looking over the aged pages of Morley's Berbeck's "Journey in America," which extended through Ohio, we found this account of a breakfast at Rushville June 16, 1817, in Fairfield county:

"A gentleman, myself and three children sat down this morning to a repast consisting of the following articles: Coffee, rolls, biscuit, dry toast, waffles (a soft, hot cake of German extraction covered with butter), pickled salted in fish from Lake Huron, veal cutlets, broiled ham, gooseberry pie, stewed currants, preserved cranberries, butter and cheese. For all this for myself and three children and four gallons of oats and hay for four horses we were charged 6s. 9d. for about $1.65."

There were great eaters in those days, and from this record they got plenty to eat.—Ohio State Journal.

First Chess Champion.

Authentic history locates chess in Persia in 760, and the word chess is known to be of Persian origin, coming from the word "shah," meaning "king," and chess has been considered a game for kings from time immemorial. The game found its first home in Spain toward the close of the fifteenth century, and in 1561 Ray Lopez published his treatise, which is recognized as the foundation of all modern chess. His work was republished in Venice in 1534, and from that date the Italians became recognized for their chess dominance. The first chess champion seems to have been Paolo Rol, who defeated every master of his time, including Ray Lopez himself. Chess playing as an occupation is not a profitable employment, although most of the chess masters devote their time exclusively to it, and therefore earn a most precarious sort of a living.

How Rough Diamonds Shrink.

The loss in weight in diamonds when going through the process of cleaving and chipping and polishing amounts to from 50 to 60 per cent on the average. Accordingly, the price of a rough diamond will have to be advanced in the finished brilliant, aside from all other expenses, at least twice to three times. With the well known "solitaires" the loss in weight is even greater, because it is necessary to chip off so much more. Thus, the diamond Excelsior, which, in its crude raw state, weighed 971½ carats, produced two brilliants, weighing together only 340 13-32 carats, with a loss in weight of 65 per cent; and the Cullinan, originally weighing 3,024½ carats, was reduced to only 950 carats, with a loss of 67 3-5 per cent.

Have the Best Last.

He who eats the best grapes from a bunch first and snatches with the poorest on the stem is likely to feel at the end that grapes are very unsatisfactory and that he does not care for any more. But if the last few grapes are good he is more than likely to reach for another bunch. And so it goes with all the gastronomic affairs of life. The dinner that starts off with a very poor soup and works through a mediocre fish to a fair entree, an excellent roast and a superb salad, concluding with unimpeachable coffee and a dessert fit for a queen, leaves a far better impression than a dinner that starts with excellent soup and progresses "downward" steadily to an atrocious dish.—Providence Journal.

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Nervousness Caused by Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It." St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'"

"I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs. BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S., St. Cloud, Minn.

THREE CASES INVESTIGATED BY CORONER

Coroner James Heffran has investigated a particularly sad case at Vesta No. 5 mine, near Fredericktown, where Helen Andyski, the two-year-old daughter of Frank Andyski, was scalded to death in a large kettle of soup. The mother had made the soup and set the kettle from the stove boiling hot, to the floor. The little girl managed to get to the kettle and fell into it head first. Her death occurred a short time later. Coroner Heffran investigated the case and reported an accidental scalding, which resulted in death.

Mr. Heffran also viewed the case at Fredericktown in which Dominica Scatenica was killed by a falling pit post. He was aged 32 years. This death also was found to be accidental. The coroner's jury investigating the death of Joseph Shubert an Austrian miner aged 23 years, and employed at the mines of the Sanford Coal Co. and Raceon, who was electrocuted July 24, censured the mine officials for permitting the state mining laws to be violated.

The jury found that Shubert had come to his death through his own negligence in riding a motor car in violation of the state mining laws, but found further that said violation was due to the practice of the mine officials in failing to report to the mine inspector such violations.

It was shown by the testimony that the miners had been permitted to ride from the inner workings at quitting time to the pimento. The law prohibits this and the motorman is instructed by law not to move his car when a man is on it. It was shown by the evidence that Shubert jumped the motor and had been told to get off, but he refused. In coming out he encountered a live wire, which had been torn from the insulators, and was electrocuted.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH THE RACES AT SANDY PLAINS

A heavy wind and rain storm Wednesday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock resulted in the calling off of the afternoon's speed program at Sandy Plains after one heat had been run in each of the three events. On account of the heat it was decided to start all three races in order that the horses would have a better opportunity to cool off between heats. This was done but the storm broke before any of the performers could be called back for the second heats. The crowd was large, between 2,000 and 3,000 people being on the grounds. The racing started off in a manner which indicated that it would be more than interesting. The field bunched well from the start and the finishes in the first heats were all close and exciting. When the storm broke the customary period of thirty minutes elapsed before the racing was called off.

EXCEPTION FILED IN RAILWAYS' CASE

Lucy A. Jones, of Fallowfield township, has filed exceptions to the bond of the West Side Electric Street Railways company for damages in constructing a line through her land. The bond was filed this week to cover all damages. Miss Jones in her answer claims that the company has not secured the municipal right from all townships, boroughs and towns through which the road is to pass for the construction of the said road, therefore has no authority to condemn land. She also states that it is the intention of the company to condemn a stream longitudinally for a distance of 1,000 feet which is contrary to the laws of the state. She also states that the blueprint filed with the bond does not designate where two grade crossings are to be on her farm and that the damage made by these crossings might be heavy and she is unable to tell the cost at this time.

H. A. Chalfant, who was formerly connected with the Bell Telephone company here and who has since been employed in Fayette county has accepted a position in the solicitor's department of the local Bell Telephone office.

AN ANSWERED PRAYER

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

"Now, Henry, I want to talk to you on a very serious matter," began Mr. Gregg's wife as they sat together one evening.

Mr. Gregg nodded and sighed. He was a bored husband. His wife had a serious subject to bring up every week or two.

"You know our Polly?" queried the wife in a half doubting way.

Mr. Gregg was the father of Polly and ought to be fairly well acquainted with her. He nodded his head.

"Polly has another beau, and I want to know what we are going to do about it."

"I can't do anything," slowly replied the husband after a moment's thought, "but you can."

"What?"

"You can butt in and crowd Polly out and do the courting yourself, as you have done with every other beau she has had."

"Henry Gregg, may the Lord forgive you, for I never can!" wailed the wife as she covered her face with her hands.

"But I'm right," he defended. "Suppose I sat beside him in the parlor for fifteen minutes blinding around how nice it would be when he and Polly were married."

"Suppose I dinged it at him that Polly was an angel and that he would never have a chance to marry another."

"Henry Gregg, you are an unnatural father, and I'll never speak another word to you on this matter. If Polly lives to be ninety years old and never marries it will be all your fault."

It was common gossip that Mrs. Gregg was so crazy to marry Polly off that she was making a fool of herself. No one had given her a tip, and the girl had heard nothing. No one blamed her. She was a sweet, sensible girl and didn't even realize that there was too much mother and not enough of herself about the affair.

Mrs. Gregg had received a bad setback from her husband. She felt that he had usurped a privilege as sacred as the cow of India. A daughter's love affairs and matrimonial prospects ought to be left entirely in a mother's hands. The wife had said that she wouldn't discuss the matter further with her husband, and she meant to keep her word, but she must talk to somebody. She hardly dared trust a woman, but who then?

"Why, the minister of my church, of course," she replied after casting about for a day or two.

"Are you in trouble, Sister Gregg?" asked the good man as she entered his study with tears in her eyes.

"Y-yes; great trouble."

"Concerning your husband?"

"Partly. He has come between me and Polly."

"Hem! How is that?"

"Why, he says I'm to let her beau alone and that she is to manage her own affairs. Did you ever hear the like?"

Her parson had heard all the gossip about Mrs. Gregg butting in. Parsons know what is going on in their parishes as well as anybody else, but they don't repeat the gossip.

"How old is Polly?" was asked.

"Going on twenty."

"Hem! And she has another beau?"

"Yes—Wm. Somers."

"And he calls at the house?"

"Two or three times a week."

"I see. Young Mr. Somers is highly spoken of."

"He's just as nice as can be. parson."

"But Mr. Gregg objects to him?"

"Oh, no, no."

"Then I don't exactly understand."

"Why, I want him to know that I'm glad he's courting Polly, and Mr. Gregg says I'll drive him away. He calls it butting in."

"Y-es, I believe I've heard the word before. Sister Gregg, don't you think Polly is old enough to be courted?"

"Why, yes."

"And to be courted the way other girls are?"

"Without me around?" was asked.

The parson nodded his head.

"But—but I want Mr. Somers to know—know—"

"He'll know."

"Then you won't advise me?"

"I never mix up with family matters if I can avoid it."

"Well," said the discouraged woman as she rose to go. "If you won't advise me I shall at least hope you will pray for me."

"Um!" replied the parson, leaving the matter very much in doubt.

Three weeks later Mrs. Gregg fell on an icy sidewalk and broke a leg. After a couple of weeks the pastor made a call, as it was his duty to do. He found her mending and cheerful. She welcomed him with a smile and said: "I have some news for you. Polly and Mr. Somers are engaged!"

"Ah, indeed?"

"She told me this morning."

"Happy to hear it."

"And I want to say how thankful I am that you prayed for me. You did pray, didn't you?"

"Hem! Hem! Well, sister, if I did not exactly pray I thought how nice it would be for you to be laid up for several weeks and give Polly a show to do some courting, and my thought seems to have been answered."

FALL SERIOUS FOR MAN OF 200 POUNDS

Walter, 18-year-old son of T. J. Eckbreth, is at his home here suffering from painful injuries as a result of a fall from an auto bus. Young Eckbreth weighs over 200 pounds. With some friends he attended a carnival and was riding up town on the auto bus. When the machine went over the bridge bumper Eckbreth was jarred off. He was rendered unconscious and a great gash was cut in his head requiring seven stitches to close. He remained unconscious until Wednesday when he seemed better.

As the result of the activity of pickpockets or through pure misfortune, Ray Emrick and S. L. Woodward, of Charleroi suffered losses at the Sandy Plains fair Wednesday. Emrick bought some sandwiches at a stand and afterwards as he thought thrust his pocketbook into his hip pocket. A moment later he looked and it was gone. He searched the ground nearby but could find no trace of it. There was not a large crowd around at the time. Later Mr. Woodward looked for his watch and it was missing.

INJUNCTION IS DECLARED AGAINST SMELTER COMPANY

Judge J. F. Taylor Wednesday heard the injunction case of R. G. Gillespie against the American Zinc and Chemical company. This is an action to prevent the zinc company from going ahead with the erection of buildings at the new smelter plant being established at Burgettstown.

Gillespie holds a lease for oil and gas on the land purchased by the smelter people, the lease antedating the title of the smelter concern. After the latter had made locations for two buildings Gillespie located wells on the same sites. It is understood a demand for $25,000 has been made by Gillespie for his rights in the sites under contest.

Judge Taylor granted a temporary injunction against the erection of the smelter buildings and the matter will come up later for final decision.

EXTRA SESSION OF GRAND JURY IS FOR GREENE

A special jury composed of 48 men was drawn yesterday to hear two cases from Greene county, growing out of the failure of the Farmers and Drovers National bank. The cases will be called the first Monday in September, which will be September 1. Criminal court will be in session at this time, but Judge Reppert, of Somerset county, will sit in the Greene county cases.

George Auld, of Washington, and James Iams, of Waynesburg, who gave a mortgage to cover claims held against them by the defunct bank, are now attempting to be relieved of payment of this mortgage and this special term of civil court will dispose of these cases.

William Gelder of Charleroi has been drawn a member of the jury.

BALLPLAYER DIES VICTIM OF THE GAME

Paul Reynal Succumbs
to Injuries at Pittsburg
Hospital

HIT BY PITCHED BALL
HIT BY PITCHED BALL

Monongahela Outfielder Pop-
ular Throughout Valley--
Pitcher Prostrated

Paul Reynal, the popular young outfielder of the Monongahela baseball team, died Wednesday evening at 6:20 o'clock in the South Side hospital, Pittsburg, as the result of injuries sustained in a church league game at Monongahela Monday evening, when he was struck in the left temple by a pitched ball.

The young man was taken to the hospital on Tuesday morning and an operation was performed Tuesday afternoon, a large clot of blood being removed from his brain. Reynal showed improvement following the operation. He regained consciousness Tuesday evening and was able to move his right arm and leg, which had been paralyzed. He suddenly became worse Wednesday evening and sank rapidly until death came.

The body of the young man was brought to Monongahela today. Funeral services will be held in the Transfiguration Roman Catholic church, of which Reynal was a member on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The pallbearers will be members of the Monongahela baseball team. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery at Monongahela.

Paul Reynal, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Baptist Reynal, was born in France 26 years ago. He was brought to America by his parents when he was four years of age and since that time the family home had been at New Eagle.

He was an employee of the American Window Glass company. Reynal was widely known throughout the valley for his baseball ability. He was generally respected and was regarded as a lover of clean sport. He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, of Monongahela and of a French organization called the Independents, at Charleroi. In addition to being the crack outfielder of the Monongahela baseball team he played on the Catholic team in the church league. In the game in which he was fatally injured he was substituting on the Presbyterian team for Clyde Jenkins.

ODD FELLOWS OF VALLEY TO HOLD OUTING

Arrangements are being made by the Monongahela Valley I. O. O. F. Picnic association for the annual outing of Odd Fellows to be held at Kenneywood park on August 26. A special train will be run on the Monongahela division, P. R. R. from Brownsville, gathering passengers at various points. It is expected a big crowd will attend the affair.

Claims His Titles Are
Alright

C. C. Henderson of Monongahela, has filed an answer to an ejectment proceeding started by Martha J. Campbell, Dorothy Blanche McConnell, Bertha J. Minehart and J. Oscar Brawdy. The defendant has filed an abstract of the land running down the title for years and claims a legal right to the property and denies that the plaintiffs are the owners.

L. C. B. A. PICNIC SUCCESS

Gather at Eldora Park
Wednesday

"BIG" DAY IS OBSERVED

Almost ideal weather conditions prevailed for the picnic and outing of St. Jerome's Catholic congregation of Charleroi, held at Eldora park Wednesday under the auspices of the Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association. A good sized crowd attended the outing, which was a decided success in every particular.

The L. C. B. A. had the park controlled for the day and everything was declared free. The merry-go-round, the roller coaster, the dancing pavilion—all were to be enjoyed for the asking, and during the afternoon and evening they were all well patronized.

Dancing was one feature, and euchre that was enjoyed by those who did not care to dance was another. Beautiful favours were awarded.

Refreshment stands were conducted during the afternoon and evening at various points throughout the park at which points lemonade and other light drinks of a similar nature and ice cream were served. At the dancing pavilion there were old fashioned cake walks that proved popular.

A bicycle contest was decided. The bicycle was finally awarded to Paul Urban of Charleroi.

There was a party of from 20 to 25 present from Pittsburg to enjoy the outing. Members of the congregation say it was one of the most successful affairs ever held.

Congressman Palmer Names Brownsville Man in List That He Hands to President Woodrow
Wilson For Appointment

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer carried his recommendations for Federal appointments in Western Pennsylvania to President Woodrow Wilson and announcement of appointments are expected soon from the president.

Included in the list will be C. G. Llewellyn of Brownsville, collector of internal revenue to succeed D. B. Heiner. Others will be: E. Lowery Humes, Meadville, United States district attorney to succeed John H. Jordan. Henry H. Wilson of Beaver United States Marshal to succeed L. H. Porter of Beaver. Frank P. Isherwood of Bradford, McKean county, deputy marshal. William E. McNair, of Wilkinsburg and James A. Mabbitt of Washington, Pa., as assistant

United States attorneys. George W. Ackin of Pittsburg surveyor of the port to succeed M. M. Garland. H. H. McGinnis of Pittsburg to be appraiser of customs to succeed John D. Pringle.

The two latter places will not be filled at present. The incumbents will be permitted to serve out their terms unless charges are filed against them. Porter is to be dropped to make room for Wilson. The fight on Llewellyn will be carried to Washington next week. His political opponents are to have a chance to present their case to Palmer. It is understood, however that this move is but a subterfuge and a plan to allay the wounded feelings of several disappointed Democrats.

$170 to Black Diamond Woman and Doesn't
Raise a Bit of Fuss About It

On his rounds searching for an honest man Diogenes must have missed the street car conductors, and particularly a conductor on the Pittsburg Railways line, one Roy Hazelbaker. Coming home on the car from Pittsburg Wednesday Mrs. Valentine Partizini, of Black Diamond lost her pocketbook, which she said contained $170, some small change and some valuable papers.

Immediately she notified the car bar at Charleroi of her loss and wept through fear, it is said that a member of the gang of thieves believed to have been working through this community had "touched" her.

Later she received a call and was astounded to be handed her pocketbook containing all the money and everything she wanted.

JOS. W. MARTIN ENTERS CONTEST

Well Known Washington
Man to Make Run for Re-
corder Nomination

Local announcement is being made today by Joseph W. Martin, formerly of California, now of Washington as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for nomination for recorder in Washington county. As yet he has no opposition in the county and it is rumored that he will not have for the nomination. Other parties will have candidates in the field, and it looks as if his fight would be after the primaries.

Had it not been for 13 votes Martin would not be a candidate this year for the office of recorder. He made one of the most remarkable fights Washington county has ever known for prothonotary at the last election and was beaten out by A. V. Lewis, of Donora, by 13 votes, according to the tally of a board of counters that completed the second count. His contest was made on the question of double crossed ballots and he lost out in the final decision.

Mr. Martin is well known and popular over Washington county, and it is believed with the Democratic nomination he will make things hot for whoever is named by other parties to oppose him. His close run for prothonotary gives proof of this.

DR. J. W. MANON OUT FOR BURGESS

Leading Civic Worker An-
nounces Candidacy for
Municipal Office

The first announcement of a candidate to be made for the office of burgess of Charleroi is being published elsewhere today in the Mail. Dr. J. W. Manon will make the run on the Democratic ticket, having been persuaded by his friends to enter the contest.

Dr. Manon is one of the best known men in Charleroi, and is generally regarded as one of the leading civic workers. In numerous ways his influence has been felt for the right and his work for Charleroi has always bended toward the improvement of the town.

Dr. Manon has been a resident of Charleroi for 17 years. He has been engaged in business that length of time, and is a property owner. As a close student of affairs he is a capable man for the office of burgess, and as a man who has seen his share of service in municipal offices without remuneration has won his right to recognition.

Dr. Manon was formerly a member of the school board and a hard worker for upbuilding the schools. Also for sometime he was chief of the fire department serving in this position

This game has been called off owing to the tragic death of Paul Reynal, outfielder on the Monongahela team and as yet it is not known whether the other games scheduled will be played.

LIGHTNING BURNS BOY; IS LIVING

Strip of Hair is Re-
moved From Head and
His Horse is Killed

OCCURS DURING STORM

After lying in an unconscious condition for 13 hours as a result of being struck by lightning John D. Bedillion, aged 15 years, son of John R. Bedillion, who resides in Chartiers township near the Cross Roads United Presbyterian church, rallied Wednesday and the attending physician believes that the boy will recover. Two horses were instantly killed by the bolt that hit young Bedillion and two of his brothers were stunned.

Young Bedillion had a remarkable escape from meeting instant death. The lightning seems to have struck him directly on top of the head. There is a mark down the front of his body and another on the back of his head and down his back. The lightning that went down his back is believed to have caused his condition to remain so serious during the 13 hours. A streak of hair on the back of his head was burned off fully an inch and a half wide.

The boy was injured shortly before 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during the heavy storm that passed to the north of Washington. He was unconscious from that time until Wednesday when he began to rally. When he first aroused he was not even aware that he had so close a call from death and was unable to recall any feature of the accident. He continued to improve, however, and his memory cleared.

The father saw his son struck down. He said that as the horses dropped to the ground his son seemed to leap into the air and fall upon the

CHARLEROI GIRL SAYS

Miss Catherine Kauffle
One of Cars But Escapes
Without Injury

Proverbial Pennsylvania Railroad good luck attended the passing and employees on two westbound trains from Philadelphia when a thrilling rear-end collision occurred at Tyrone Wednesday afternoon 2:40 o'clock. The collision was serious, yet only one fatality was reported, with another employee of road dangerously injured; eleven were taken to the Altoona hospital with more or less painful wounds. Close to 100 persons who were less hurt continued their journeys home.

Engineer G. K. Hunt of train No. 13, of Harrisburg, was the man killed when he struck to his post. Fireman W. D. Barton of Harrisburg, Assistant Road Foreman C. E. Miller of Harrisburg were badly injured the latter having his skull fractured.

Westbound passenger train No. 13 which arrived at Tyrone four minutes late had called in its flagman and already started to move away from the station when No. 13 a fast press of eight cars running on track and going about 30 miles an hour came around the curve less than cars lengths east of the station plunged into the Pullman car on rear of No. 15. The impact threw locomotive of No. 13 off the track and against the railroad fence, the cars following also being derailed. The front mail car in No. 15 went over while the seven cars behind it stood the shock and remained on the rails. On the locomotive head No. 13, were Engineer George Funk, Fireman W. D. Barton and Assistant Road Foreman of Engines E. Miller all of Harrisburg.

When the locomotive lurched off Funk was crushed against the fence and instantly killed. Road Foreman Miller suffered a fracture of the skull and the fireman escaped with injuries. The passengers in the two cars on No. 15, which received the worst of the shock, were thrown from their seats and many were bruised and cut but similar injuries were received by others in all cars on the two trains. Assistance and surgical aid were promptly sent to the injured being cared for and but 11 sent on their way.

The cause of the accident is yet to be explained. Within the past two weeks new automatic electric signals were installed at Tyrone. Whether they failed to work or whether they were disregarded by the engineer No. 13, will depend upon the investigation to be made immediately. The last signal which should have warned the engineer of No. 13 is located about 40 car lengths from the station, but the station could not be seen by the engineer on account of sharp curve only 10 car lengths away. There was but slight deviation to trains because of the weather.

CORRUPT ELECTIONS

According to the British historian and philosopher, W. E. H. Lecky,
an evil that is universal, no matter
how flagrant, is not recognized as
such. It is only when the evil is
fully recognized, and is on the run,
that public attention is called to it
and the impression is created that
such evil is at its height, when the
truth of the matter is that it is disappearing remarks the Punksutawney Spirit.

When the public conscience is thoroughly awakened to the iniqui-
ty of a thing its days are numbered.
Although we have heard more
about corrupt elections and rotten
political methods in the past decade
than in former years, those who can
remember the old regime, when the
vest pocket ballot was in use and
electioneering was permitted in the
election house, will admit that there
has been a great change for the better.

Most middle-aged men can remember the time when a voter could not
approach the polls without being
pulled and hauled and brow-beaten
by poll-workers, while the weaker
class were offered bribes of a quarter or a drink of whiskey. It was no
uncommon sight to see a ticket
snatched from a man's hand just as
he was about to deposit it in the ballot-box, and another ticket substituted, with the information that "you don't want to vote that ticket."

This sort of thing was once so
common that nobody regarded it as
an offense, and the poll-worker who
used the most flagrant rough house
methods was looked upon as a sort
of hero.

Increased culture and an improved moral sense has almost abolished

these methods and a general feeling
prevails that it is an outrage to interfere in any way, save by legitimate
argument and the force of right
reasoning, with any voter.

The security and permanence of
our institutions depend upon the
purity of the ballot and the protection of the rights of citizens in their
exercise of the franchise. We can-
not, of course, expect perfection in
anything human so long as humanity itself is imperfect, but we may
expect matters to improve in precise
proportion to the growth of culture
and the increase of moral sentiment.

IDLERS MUST WORK.

"Idlers must work" says the New
Castle News, which tells that Mayor
Nye of Minneapolis has given orders that every man in that city who
will not work is to be classed as a
vagrant and punished. It is estimated that there are about 1,200 men in
that city out of employment and
Mayor Nye states that from information he has received he believes
about 500 of these are looking for
work, 500 are dodging work and the other 200 are preaching idleness as a business.

Inasmuch as there is a big demand for labor in the flour city the
mayor cannot see why men should
remain idle and he has given orders
that the police are to round up all
men out of work, see that they get
an opportunity to get a job and if
they will not work for themselves
they will be put to work for the city.
The Minneapolis mayor is to be congratulated on his stand. There
is no place for the professional parasite on society and the sooner that
fact is borne home hard, the better
it will be for all concerned.

THE ADVANCE OF KNOWLEDGE

There is evidence all around us
of the striking advancement being
made every day in almost every line
of endeavor. Aeroplanes, considered
unpractical only a few years ago, are
now to be used for carrying mail to
inaccessible spots in Alaska and other
remote corners of the globe. Tremendous engines travel across the continent at speeds hitherto undreamed
of. Automobiles are now reliable and
have marked a further advance.
Mighty steamships, replete with
every luxury and literally floating pal-
aces, have supplanted the old uncertain "windjammer" that formerly sufficed. Steel skyscrapers have been erected on the sites of buildings much smaller. Thus we live in an age that,
because of the rapid advance, im-
poses upon us a strain formerly unknown.

The singular aspect is the facility
with which men and women adapt
themselves to the new conditions. But
in so doing there is an inevitable re-
action that results in numerous illnesses and diseases. The use of patent medicines, pills, physics, etc.,
has not improved the general health.
Indeed, the harmful ingredients do
much to aggravate ill-health by eating away the tissues and weakening
the system.

In this sphere of human achievement there is little to record. Natural means of restoring and maintaining health are still the best and safest. This accounts for the increasing popularity of the noted mineral
springs of Europe. In this connection there is an interesting development. A prominent American chem-
ist has succeeded in reproducing the
health-giving elements of the mineral
waters in powder form. The powder
has been reinforced by the addition
of two well-known curative agents—
phosphate of soda and lithia. The
preparation thus obtained is like evap-
orated mineral water, and when dis-
solved in ordinary drinking water has
all the medicinal qualities of the mineral springs of Carlsbad and Marien-
bad, which annually attract hundreds
of Americans seeking relief from
rheumatism, gout and disorders of the
system due to the secretion of bile
and uric acid. The results obtained
with this preparation, known as Cook's
Lax-Uric, are little short of marvelous. It contains no drugs or harmful ingredients, and can be safely
and effectively used for headaches,
biliousness, summer complaints, indiscretions in eating and drinking and
all conditions arising from uric acid
in the blood. Physicians recommend Lax-Uric as an ideal laxative. It increases appetite and aids digestion.

WATCH US GROW

About one Year ago I attempted to draw your attention to the steady and permanent growth of our little Borough and since that time our valuation has increased nearly $100,000.00.

Theres A Reason

As a resident section North Charleroi, (or as it is better known as Lock No. 4) has no equal in the Monongahela Valley. In close touch with the leading industrial centers and the borough spending from $15,000 to $20,000 in sewer and street improvements, will make it still more desirable.

More homes have been built by the better class of working men in our borough during the last year than in any borough within a radius of 20 miles regardless of size, and homes that any man, regardless of position would be proud to own.

Real Estate values have increased over 30 per cent in the last year, and after our improvements are completed, which will be within the next two months, we can reasonably expect another increase in values.

Procrastination is the thief of time. I have still a few choice lots for sale at prices from $225 to $1500 each.

Several good homes, two grocery stores. Call and see us and we will be pleased to talk the matter over with you. Watch for small ads for specials every day. You may see something that will suit you.

A Chinese Umbrella

By REGINALD D. HAVEN

I was dining the other day with my friend Alan Bonbright. Mrs. Bonbright is the daughter of a missionary whose field was in China, and she had spent most of her girlhood there. Her husband had been to China on business, met her there and brought her home with him as his wife.

Mrs. Bonbright, a girl at this time, was with her father at his missionary station in the province of Shantung. After dinner I was taken to a room where a collection of souvenirs of the Flowery Kingdom was kept. Among them was an umbrella made of bamboo wood and paper, covered with the customary pictures of men and women, birds and flowers. Across it when expanded were Chinese characters which, of course, I could not read. Bonbright directed my attention to the umbrella, and Mrs. Bonbright said, "If you're going to tell that story I'll go elsewhere." She went out with a look indicating that I was about to hear something unpleasant.

"You know," said Bonbright, "that China is full of persons who live by highway robbery. They cut off their heads whenever they capture them, but this doesn't seem to deter others, for life is cheap there and only the better classes care much about their own or others' terrestrial existence. Well, one day I was traveling on horseback through the province of Shantung. I had no mind to be set upon by the highwaymen and had armed myself. There is not much fight in even the robbers in China unless they have every advantage, and I didn't feel in much danger so long as I could defend myself.

"I was not attacked myself; but, hearing a shouting ahead of me, I pressed forward and found a Chinaman in the dress of a mandarin being set upon by a gang of robbers. I fired shots at them, and they left their prey in a sorry plight and took to their heels. I picked him up and set him to rights. I had come up just in time to save his pocketbook, and he offered me a portion of its contents as a reward. This, of course, I declined, whereupon he talked his thanks—so I supposed, for I did not understand a word he said. Just before I left him he took a writing stick and wrote those characters you see there on the umbrella and gave it to me. There was nothing to do but accept it, and as the day was hot I used it.

"Every Chinaman I met looked at the umbrella, then at me, and their indifference was at once turned to reverence. Some of them stopped and saluted as I passed. I wondered if they mistook me for the governor of a province or an executioner. Singularly enough, I didn't catch on to the fact that it was the umbrella that was drawing forth such respect.

"I stopped that night at the missionary station presided over by my wife's father and found them in great trouble. They had got wind through some of the Christian natives, servants and others attached to the mission of the Boxer movement that was about to break forth. My wife was then a girl of nineteen and the oldest of a family of seven. The converts were in a terrible state of fear, which naturally communicated itself to the white family.

"Drowning persons will cling to a straw, and this family clung to me. True, I was only one man, but I was well armed, and even one man might be of some protection. I suppose I would have remained anyway, but I could not leave the girl who struck my fancy. When she looked appealingly at me with those blue eyes of hers I could not resist and said I would remain with them till the trouble was over.

"Remembering how easily I had put to flight the robbers, I really thought that with my two revolvers and some fifty cartridges I would be a protection, but when I heard the shrieks of the Christian converts as the crowd approached the mission house I didn't like the prospect. The yells of the brutes who were murdering them were equally appalling. What could I do against an infuriated mob?

"However, I stationed myself at an upper window, laying my ammunition and extra pistols beside me. I called upon Ethel to stay beside me and load them for me as fast as I fired, and she nerved herself to do so. I put my head out and, seeing the mob coming reeking with blood, my heart sank. Wishing something to conceal me from them, I took up the umbrella the mandarin had given me, opened it, fixed it before me at the window and poked holes through it so that I could see where to fire.

"The mob had broken into the next house and killed every one there, then was ready to storm the mission. Already an ax had fallen on the door below me when I saw a man look at my umbrella and become much excited. He ran forward, then back with the man who wielded the ax. A knot of rioters gathered, all looking at the umbrella. Not another blow was struck. I did not seem to fire a single shot. The mob seemed disappointed, but passed on.

"As soon as it had gone I withdrew the umbrella. Ethel, who could read Chinese as well as English, clasped her hands, raised her eyes to heaven and gave thanks. Then she interpreted the characters to me. It was an order from the greatest mandarin in the province to 'respect this man and all that belongs to him.'

Smallest Deer In the World.

The "mousedeer" of India and Africa is the chevrotain, one of the smallest hoofed animals. It stands less than twelve inches in height at the shoulder. The prevailing color of the fur is brown, finely speckled with yellow. The spots are large and sometimes run into each other and form stripes. The underparts of the body are white. It possesses the peculiar habit of walking on the tips of its hoofs. This lends a stiffness to the legs which has gained for the chevrotain the reputation of having no knee joints. It has no horns or antlers. But, as in the case of the musk deer, the male is provided with large canine teeth or tusks in the upper jaw. It is of exceedingly timid disposition and lies hidden in the jungle throughout the day and only ventures to feed in the early morning or after dusk in the evening.

Open Spaces In Cities.

Along with the new keenness over social and economic reform England has developed a number of other virtues in the past score of years. One is an appreciation of the value of open spaces in cities, and one is the increased determination to preserve ancient landmarks. Every few months an article appears in the Times or some other influential newspaper acquainting people with the danger that threatens some historical or long cherished spot, and usually the money necessary to save the property has been forthcoming.—Indianapolis News.

Practical Courses Coming.

"Father," asked the girl who was going to marry a poor man, "do you think I ought to take a course in household economics? They offer lovely one at Briny Moore for $300." "No," replied pater grimly. "You will get one for nothing after you are married."—Judge.

The Request.

"Did Baron Fouché ask you for my hand, father?" asked Gwendoline. "No," replied Mr. Curodon. "He talked to me about a marriage settlement. He didn't ask for your hand. He asked for my pocketbook."—Washington Star.

August Furniture Sale

Reductions 10% to 50%

August 1st to 30th.

We always have an August Furniture Sale. We always get ready for it early.

Furniture factories have their dull seasons, like many other industries. Months ahead we tell certain of the best manufacturers.

"Make to our order, whenever business is so dull you can afford to take very low prices just to keep busy, Furniture for our August Sale. It must be up to our usual year-round Furniture standards. Deliver in time for the August Sale so we can sell it then at the same proportion of saving we get from you on the cost."

That is why we can sell at the reductions quoted. There is a wide choice at a wide range of prices. And all our Furniture is correct as to period and design, is in good taste and is serviceable.

Our August Bedding Sale

August 1st to 30th.

In August, we make prices on Blankets and other Bedding to create an out-of-season demand commensurate with our possibilities of cheap supply.

The Blanket business for the manufacturer as governed by demand for use, closes in February and reopens in October.

This condition enables us to buy at low figures, if we sell quickly so as not to have the stock on hand in the Fall, an immense quantity of Blankets and Comforts for an August Sale.

We can make you more liberal price concessions on new, fresh goods at this time than any other time in the year.

See Pittsburgh Papers, Thursday evening, July 31st, for full particulars.

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Nervousness Caused by Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It." St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'"

"I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs. BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S., St. Cloud, Minn.

THREE CASES INVESTIGATED BY CORONER

Coroner James Heffran has investigated a particularly sad case at Vesta No. 5 mine, near Fredericktown, where Helen Andyski, the two-year-old daughter of Frank Andyski, was scalded to death in a large kettle of soup. The mother had made the soup and set the kettle from the stove boiling hot, to the floor. The little girl managed to get to the kettle and fell into it head first. Her death occurred a short time later. Coroner Heffran investigated the case and reported an accidental scalding, which resulted in death.

Mr. Heffran also viewed the case at Fredericktown in which Domineca Scatenica was killed by a falling pit post. He was aged 32 years. This death also was found to be accidental.

The coroner's jury investigating the death of Joseph Shubert an Austrian miner aged 22 years, and employed at the mines of the Sanford Coal Co. and Raccoon, who was electrocuted July 24, censured the mine officials for permitting the state mining laws to be violated.

The jury found that Shubert had come to his death through his own negligence in riding a motor car in violation of the state mining laws, but found further that said violation was due to the practice of the mine officials in failing to report to the mine inspector such violations.

It was shown by the testimony that the miners had been permitted to ride from the inner workings at quitting time to the pitmouth. The law prohibits this and the motorman is instructed by law not to move his car when a man is on it. It was shown by the evidence that Shubert jumped the motor and had been told to get off, but he refused. In coming out he encountered a live wire, which had been torn from the insulators, and was electrocuted.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH THE RACES AT SANDY PLAINS

A heavy wind and rain storm Wednesday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock resulted in the calling off of the afternoon's speed program at Sandy Plains after one heat had been run in each of the three events. On account of the heat it was decided to start all three races in order that the horses would have a better opportunity to cool off between heats. This was done but the storm broke before any of the performers could be called back for the second heats. The crowd was large, between 2,000 and 3,000 people being on the grounds. The racing started off in a manner which indicated that it would be more than interesting. The field bunched well from the start and the finishes in the first heats were all close and exciting. When the storm broke the customary period of thirty minutes elapsed before the racing was called off.

EXCEPTION FILED IN RAILWAYS' CASE

Lucy A. Jones, of Fallowfield township, has filed exceptions to the bond of the West Side Electric Street Railways company for damages in constructing a line through her land. The bond was filed this week to cover all damages. Miss Jones in her answer claims that the company has not secured the municipal right from all townships, boroughs and towns through which the road is to pass for the construction of the said road, therefore has no authority to condemn land. She also states that it is the intention of the company to condemn a stream longitudinally for a distance of 1,000 feet which is contrary to the laws of the state. She also states that the blueprint filed with the bond does not designate where two grade crossings are to be on her farm and that the damage made by these crossings might be heavy and she is unable to tell the cost at this time.

H. A. Chalfant, who was formerly connected with the Bell Telephone company here and who has since been employed in Fayette county has accepted a position in the solicitor's department of the local Bell Telephone office.

AN ANSWERED PRAYER

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

"Now, Henry, I want to talk to you on a very serious matter," began Mr. Gregg's wife as they sat together one evening.

Mr. Gregg nodded and sighed. He was a bored husband. His wife had a serious subject to bring up every week or two.

"You know our Polly?" queried the wife in a half doubting way.

Mr. Gregg was the father of Polly and ought to be fairly well acquainted with her. He nodded his head.

"Polly has another beau, and I want to know what we are going to do about it."

"I can't do anything," slowly replied the husband after a moment's thought, "but you can."

"What?"

"You can butt in and crowd Polly out and do the courting yourself, as you know how to do it."

"What?"

"Henry Gregg, may the Lord forgive you, for I never can!" wailed the wife as she covered her face with her hands.

"But I'm right," he defended. "Suppose that when a young man called here to see Polly I went to the door to shake hands with him and tell him I was glad to see him."

"Suppose I sat beside him in the parlor for fifteen minutes hinting around how nice it would be when he and Polly were married."

"Suppose I dinged it at him that Polly was an angel and that he would never have a chance to marry another."

"Henry Gregg, you are an unnatural father, and I'll never speak another word to you on this matter. If Polly lives to be ninety years old and never marries it will be all your fault."

It was common gossip that Mrs. Gregg was so crazy to marry Polly off that she was making a fool of herself. No one had given her a tip, and the girl had heard nothing. No one blamed her. She was a sweet, sensible girl and didn't even realize that there was too much mother and not enough of herself about the affair.

Mrs. Gregg had received a bad setback from her husband. She felt that he had usurped a privilege as sacred as the cow of India. A daughter's love affairs and matrimonial prospects ought to be left entirely in a mother's hands. The wife had said that she wouldn't discuss the matter further with her husband, and she meant to keep her word, but she must talk to somebody. She hardly dared trust a woman, but who then?

"Why, the minister of my church, of course," she replied after casting about for a day or two.

"Are you in trouble, Sister Gregg?" asked the good man as she entered his study with tears in her eyes.

"Yes; great trouble."

"Concerning your husband?"

"Partly. He has come between me and Polly."

"Them! How is that?"

"Why, he says I'm to let her beaus alone and that she is to manage her own affairs. Did you ever hear the like?"

Her parson had heard all the gossip about Mrs. Gregg butting in. Parsons know what is going on in their parishes as well as anybody else, but they don't repeat the gossip.

"How old is Polly?" was asked.

"Going on twenty."

"Them! And she has another beau?"

"Yes—Will Somers."

"And he calls at the house?"

"Two or three times a week."

"I see. Young Mr. Somers is highly spoken of."

"He's just as nice as can be. parson."

"But Mr. Gregg objects to him?"

"Oh, no, no."

"Then I don't exactly understand."

"Why, I want him to know that I'm glad he's courting Polly, and Mr. Gregg says I'll drive him away. He calls it butting in."

"Yes, I believe I've heard the word before. Sister Gregg, don't you think Polly is old enough to be courted?"

"Why, yes."

"And to be courted the way other girls are?"

"Without me around?" was asked.

The parson nodded his head.

"But—but I want Mr. Somers to know—know—"

"He'll know."

"Then you won't advise me?"

"I never mix up with family matters if I can avoid it."

"Well," said the discouraged woman as she rose to go. "If you won't advise me I shall at least hope you will pray for me."

"Um!" replied the parson, leaving the matter very much in doubt.

Three weeks later Mrs. Gregg fell on an icy sidewalk and broke a leg. After a couple of weeks the pastor made a call, as it was his duty to do. He found her mending and cheerful. She welcomed him with a smile and said:

"I have some news for you. Polly and Mr. Somers are engaged."

"Ah, indeed?"

"She told me this morning."

"Happy to hear it."

"And I want to say how thankful I am that you prayed for me. You did pray, didn't you?"

"Them! Them! Well, sister, if I did not exactly pray I thought how nice it would be for you to be laid up for several weeks and give Polly a show to do some courting, and my thought seems to have been answered."

FALL SERIOUS FOR MAN OF 200 POUNDS

Walter, 18-year-old son of T. J. Eckbreth, is at his home here suffering from painful injuries as a result of a fall from an auto bus. Young Eckbreth weighs over 200 pounds. With some friends he attended a carnival and was riding up town on the auto bus. When the machine went over the bridge bumper Eckbreth was jarred off. He was rendered unconscious and a great gash was cut in his head requiring seven stitches to close. He remained unconscious until Wednesday when he seemed better.

MAY HAVE HAD POCKETS PICKED AT FAIR GROUNDS

As the result of the activity of pickpockets or through pure misfortune, Ray Emrick and S. L. Woodward, of Charleroi suffered losses at the Sandy Plains fair Wednesday. Emrick bought some sandwiches at a stand and afterwards as he thought through his pocketbook into his hip pocket. A moment later he looked and it was gone. He searched the ground nearby but could find no trace of it. There was not a large crowd around at the time. Later Mr. Woodward looked for his watch and it was missing.

INJUNCTION IS DECLARED AGAINST SMELTER COMPANY

Judge J. F. Taylor Wednesday heard the injunction case of R. G. Gillespie against the American Zinc and Chemical company. This is an action to prevent the zinc company from going ahead with the erection of buildings at the new smelter plant being established at Burgettstown. Gillespie holds a lease for oil and gas on the land purchased by the smelter people, the lease antedating the title of the smelter concern. After the latter had made locations for two buildings Gillespie located wells on the same sites. It is understood a demand for $25,000 has been made by Gillespie for his rights in the sites under contest.

Judge Taylor granted a temporary injunction against the erection of the smelter buildings and the matter will come up later for final decision.

EXTRA SESSION OF GRAND JURY IS FOR GREENE

A special jury composed of 48 men was drawn yesterday to hear two cases from Greene county, growing out of the failure of the Farmers and Drovers National bank. The cases will be called the first Monday in September, which will be September 1. Criminal court will be in session at this time, but Judge Reppert, of Somerset county, will sit in the Greene county cases.

George Auld, of Washington, and James Iams, of Waynesburg, who gave a mortgage to cover claims held against them by the defunct bank, are now attempting to be relieved of payment of this mortgage and this special term of civil court will dispose of these cases.

William Gelder of Charleroi has been drawn a member of the jury.

DR. MANON OUT
